

Chinese Peking glass bottle vase, possibly 18th century
POA

Chinese Peking glass bottle vase, possibly 18th century, of bulbous form on tall flaring foot with a long cylindrical neck rising to a straight rim, the base with a Qianlong four character mark.

Condition: Some crizzling, three bruises and chips to glass

Notes: Peking glass originated in China in the 18th century, after Jesuit missionaries introduced modern glass-making methods. Soon after, the Kangxi Emperor established an Imperial glass-works to produce snuff-bottles and vases, usually imitating jade and other precious stones. The craft then spread and was adopted by artisans across China, reaching a golden age under the Qianlong Emperor.

Material and Technique	Peking glass
Origin	Chinese
Period	18th Century
Condition	Fair
Dimensions	Height: 35cm. (13 3/4in.)