

Chinese Peking glass bottle vase, possibly 18th century POA

Chinese Peking glass bottle vase, possibly 18th century, of bulbous form on tall flaring foot with a long cylindrical neck rising to a straight rim, the base with a Qianlong four character mark.

Dimensions:

Height: 35cm. (13 3/4in.)

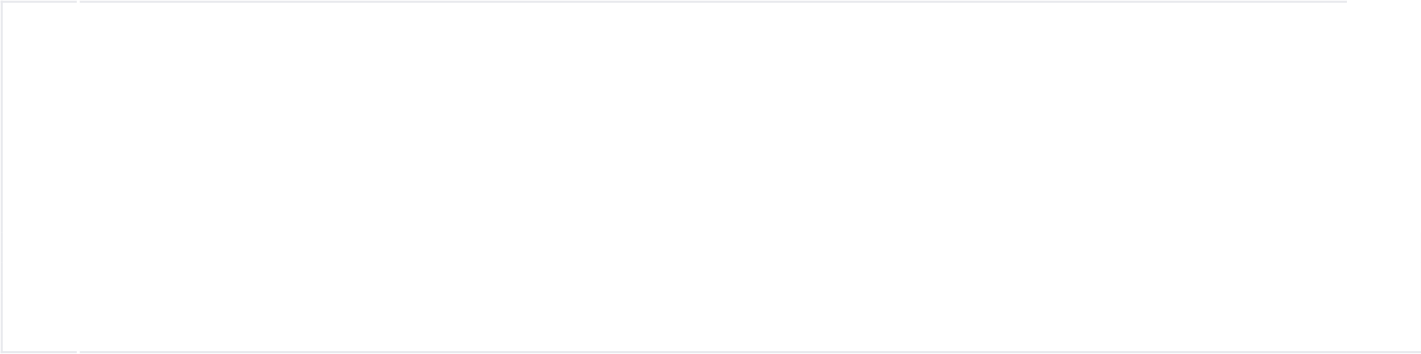

Condition:

Faults; see images

Notes:

Peking glass originated in China in the 18th century, after Jesuit missionaries introduced modern glass-making methods. Soon after, the Kangxi Emperor established an Imperial glass-works to produce snuff-bottles and vases, usually imitating jade and other precious stones. The craft then spread and was adopted by artisans across China, reaching a golden age under the Qianlong Emperor.

Material and Technique	Peking glass
Origin	Chinese
Period	18th Century
Condition	Fair

Dimensions

Height: 35cm. (13 3/4in.)

Antique ref: W298