

Chinese blue and white moulded teabowl and saucer, Kangxi (1662-1722)

POA

Chinese blue and white moulded teabowl and saucer, Kangxi (1662-1722), the teabowl decorated with swirling panels painted alternately with floral sprays, prunus and pine, the swirling panels of the saucer similarly decorated and the centre with a phoenix amongst swirls and peonies, the bases with a conch shell within a double blue circle

Dimensions:

Diameter of the saucer: 12.6cm. (5 in.)

Condition:

Minute shallow chip to teabowl.

Notes:

The Conch Shell is a symbol of royalty, dignity and high rank. Known as the 'Sacred Lungs of Buddha' it is also one of the Eight Buddhist Symbols.

Material and Technique	Porcelain with underglaze cobalt blue decoration
Origin	Chinese
Condition	Excellent
Dimensions	Diameter of the saucer: 12.6cm. (5 in.)

Antique ref: W321