

German salt-glazed tankard , 17/18th century
POA

German salt-glazed tankard , 17/18th century, of globular form with reeded neck and strap handle, the bulbous stoneware body decorated in cobalt blue with moulded fleur-de-lis design, height: 18.5cm. (7 1/4in.)

Notes:

German stoneware tankards from the seventeenth century were brought to America in large numbers on Dutch fur-trading ships. Shards of these popular vessels have been uncovered at seventeenth century sites in New York and New England.

German Salt-glazed Westerwald tankards from the 17th century were brought to America in large numbers on Dutch fur-trading ships. Shards of these popular vessels have been uncovered at seventeenth century sites in New York and New England.

Material and Technique	German salt-glazed stoneware
Origin	German
Dimensions	eight: 18.5cm. (7 1/4in.)