

Unsigned Grana Dial ATP British Military
£1,250.00

A rare find and even more so with an unsigned dial, we know its Grana from the Movement markings and we know its a 15 Jewel K.F.320 movement. ATP style watch made exclusively for the British Military as long back as the 1940's (although we cant be sure on the exact date of this one).

White dial with black hour markets, track around the outside with what would have been luminous dot markets and infil to the steel silvered hands.

35mm stainless steel case (40mm lug to lug) and steel back cover.

Sub seconds dial to the bottom, manual wind in fine working order. Unsigned generic strap.

Case back markings: W.W.W M5670

Internal Markings: K.F.320

Great all round condition. Having been a tool watch that would most likely have seen service it shows battle wounds, marks and scratches but nothing that take away from it job of keeping time or its appearance.

Collectable as the so called Dirty Dozen 12 later British Military watches or the ATP series (army Trade Pattern) of which this is in the style of its rare to find with a beautiful dial that has kept much of its originality whilst also being unsigned.
