

Boucheron Paul Legrand lingerie pin brooch in 18kt gold £12,500.00

Boucheron Paul Legrand lingerie pin brooch in 18kt Yellow Gold, Enamel and Diamonds.

Designed by Paul Legrand.

Made in the 19th century, France, Paris.

This stunning lingerie pin showcases a distinctive blend of 18kt yellow gold and vivid enamel. It features a cross-stitch-like textured gold and a geometric base, with floral motifs and is surrounded by single-point diamonds.

Dimensions:

Length: 5 cm

Width: 2 cm

Weight: 12 grams

Diamonds:

Total number: 90

Cut: Single point

Total Carat Weight: Approximately 1.10 cts

Clarity: VS1

Colour: G - H

Condition: The brooch is pre-owned, with minor signs of usage, the brooch features two-sided bars, each adorned with a small gold ball at the ends. Please note, that one of the gold balls is missing one of the bar.

History about Paul Legrand designer: Paul Legrand was a prominent jewellery designer known for his collaboration with the prestigious House of Boucheron. Working during the late 19th and early 20th centuries, Legrand played a crucial role in shaping Boucheron's aesthetic during a transformative period in jewellery design.

Legrand's designs were characterized by their intricate craftsmanship and innovative use of materials. He was particularly noted for his ability to blend traditional techniques with contemporary styles, creating pieces that were both timeless and avant-garde. His work with Boucheron helped establish the brand's reputation for excellence and creativity.

One of Legrand's significant contributions was his mastery of the "pavé" technique, where small gemstones are set closely together to create a continuous surface of sparkle. This technique became a hallmark of Boucheron's creations, distinguishing them from other luxury jewellers of the time.

Legrand's legacy in jewellery design continues to be celebrated, as his pieces remain highly sought after by collectors and connoisseurs worldwide. His influence is evident in the enduring elegance and sophistication of Boucheron's jewellery, reflecting his visionary approach and dedication to the art of fine jewellery making.

Comes in the original Boucheron display box.

Period	Pre 1900
Condition	Very good
Materials	Gold
Carat for Gold	18 K

Antique ref: Boucheron Paul Legrand lingerie pin brooch