Lacluche Frères and Jaques Lacluche history:

Lacluche Frères was a prominent jewellery house, founded in Paris in 1892 by four brothers: Léopold, Jacques, Fernand, and Jules Lacluche. Specializing in luxurious and innovative jewellery designs, Lacluche Frères quickly gained international acclaim for their exquisite craftsmanship and creativity. Around 1912, they opened a shop in London, at 2 New Bond Street and in 1920 they bought up Faberge and its entire stock.

The Lacluche Frères jewellery house flourished during the early 20th century, catering to an elite clientele that included royalty, celebrities, and high society.
