George Paulding Farnham (1859–1927) was an American jewelry designer, sculptor, and metallurgist that worked for Tiffany & Co. in the late 19th and early 20th century.

Maker: Tiffany & Co

Pattern Designed by Paulding Farnham

Style: Renaissance Revival

Introduced 1900, but patent application not filed until May 9, 1904 , issued June 7 , 1904

Since Pat.1900 was incorporated into the dies, the company must have anticipated filing for a patent at least that year.

Florentine - was another of Paulding Farnham's complex designs which included Renaissance and Rococo elements. He started with the basic King's shape. The lower stem is framed by thin scroll ornaments with small leaves. The upper stem has successive rows of leaf ornaments in a pinnate form which evolve into successive scroll ornaments of decreasing size, flanking central leaf elements. The terminal is a mixture of old and new styles.

Pieces of Florentine are not easily found today.
