

Deakin & Francis 9kt gold Agate Geode brooch
£1,850.00

Deakin & Francis vintage 9kt gold Agate Geode brooch.
Made in England, Birmingham, 1969
Fully hallmarked.

The brooch prominently features a natural slice of agate geode with a beautiful crystalline texture. The geode displays concentric layers of subtle gray and white tones, transitioning into a sparkling druzy centre with fine quartz crystals.

Each geode slice is unique, giving this piece an organic and one-of-a-kind appeal.

The gold setting frames the geode in an organic, textured design resembling naturalistic forms such as coral or foliage, emphasizing the natural theme.

The gold frame's irregular, jagged edges enhance the raw beauty of the geode, creating an almost sculptural aesthetic.

Deakin & Francis: Established in 1786, this British jewellery house has a long history of fine craftsmanship.

They are known for their high-quality, innovative designs, this brooch reflects their tradition of combining gemstones with artisanal goldsmithing techniques.

The dimensions:

Length x width x depth: 6.5 x 4.5 cm

Weight: 24 grams

Condition: The brooch is pre-owned, with minor signs of usage, excellent overall condition.

Origin	British
Period	1960s
Condition	Very good
Materials	Gold
Main Gemstone	Agate
Carat for Gold	9 K

Antique ref: Deakin & Francis vintage 9kt gold Agate Geode brooch.