

Victorian 18kt yellow gold horse head pin brooch
£950.00

Victorian 18kt yellow gold horse head pin brooch.

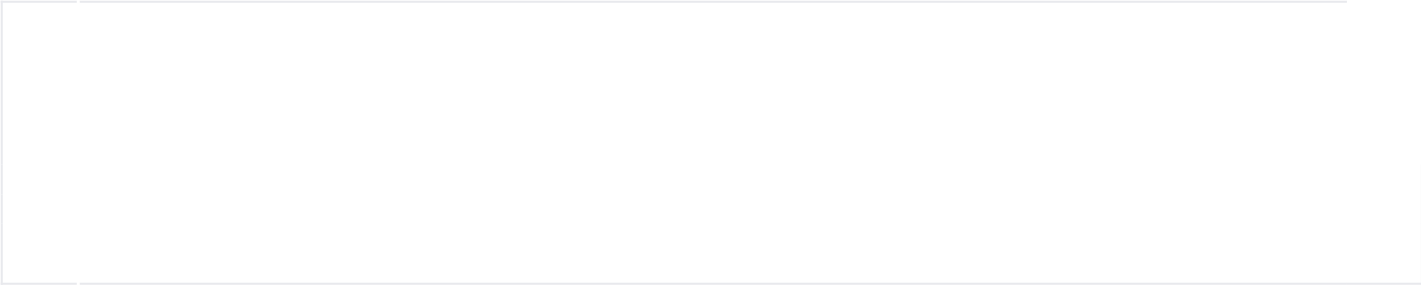

The pin features a finely sculpted horse head as its focal point, showcasing exquisite detailing: the horse's mane, bridle, and other facial details are intricately rendered. The long, slender pin extends from the base of the horse's head, designed to be worn on a lapel, cravat, or tie. The pin is designed to be sturdy yet elegant, ideal for securing in fabric without compromising its aesthetic.

The dimensions:
Length x width: 6.5 cm
Horse head width: 1.7 cm
Weight: 3 grams

Condition: The brooch is pre-owned, minor signs of usage, good and pleasant condition overall.

Stick Pins: Popular from the 18th century through the early 20th century, stick pins were worn by both men and women as functional and decorative accessories. They were often used to fasten scarves, ties, or cravats, and their designs frequently reflected personal interests or social status. Equestrian Motif: Equestrian-themed jewellery, like this piece, was particularly popular among aristocrats and horse enthusiasts, symbolising prestige and a love for the sport.
