

Edwardian set of 6 mother-of-pearl caviar spoons
£250.00

Edwardian set of 6 mother-of-pearl caviar spoons.

Specifications

Material: Mother of Pearl
Era: Edwardian

Dimensions

Length: 11.2 cm
Width: 2.2 cm
Weight: 48 grams

Condition: Pre-owned, with minor signs of usage. One of the spoons has a micro chip. Overall, in good condition.

History:

Caviar spoons, particularly those made from materials like mother-of-pearl, were a product of both luxury and practicality in the Edwardian era. During this time, caviar was not just a delicacy but also a symbol of wealth and sophistication, often served at high-society gatherings and formal dinners. The choice of mother-of-pearl for spoons wasn't purely aesthetic; it was also functional. Unlike metal, mother-of-pearl doesn't react with the delicate flavours of caviar, preserving its pure taste and ensuring an uncompromised experience for the discerning palate.

Origin	Other
Period	Early 1900s
Style	Edwardian
Condition	Good

Antique ref: Edwardian set of 6 mother-of-pearl caviar spoons.