Antique Victorian 15K Gold Spinner Seal and Pendant (Circa late 19th Century, 1880's)

This exquisite Victorian spinner seal, crafted in 15K gold, showcases remarkable artistry and versatility. The seal features two intricately engraved sides: one depicts a cross symbolising faith, while the other side showcases a bird in flight, representing freedom and hope. Both designs are finely detailed, reflecting the exceptional craftsmanship of the Victorian era.

The seal is set with a clear crystal, most likely quartz, which enhances the engraved designs and provides a striking contrast to the warm gold setting. The frame is adorned with ornate floral and scroll motifs.

With its swivel mechanism, the seal can be rotated to display either design, and the ornate loop at the top allows it to be worn as a pendant. This dual functionality makes it both a beautiful piece of jewellery and a fascinating collector's item.
