This Tag Heuer Formula 1 WA1210 is a bit of a nostalgic fun from the mid 90's. This Tag Heuer is durable, reliable and quirky and all under £400!

These Tag Heuer Formula 1 WA1210's have had a bit of a rebirth and remain popular. A desirable fun colour scheme of blue dial with what would have been white hour markers that have turned an off white / creamy colour. The blue plastic bezel printed with the numbers in white and red and finally the red hands, hour marker outlines and Tag Heuer logo finish the look.

35mm mid-size stainless steel case the fixed bezel is plastic, and we have chosen to match this watch to a similar colour style generic textile strap.

Quartz battery powered movement with a fresh battery change. All parts of the watch and movement are original, and we estimate this watch to be from the mid 90's.

From a time when Tag Heuer were the timekeeper of Formula 1 these watches are becoming more and more collectable.

Condition - Watch shows minor marks and scratches as you would expect but certainly nothing significant. Slightly faded dial which appears to have happened naturally over time.

Our View - Take a step back to when life was maybe a little simpler, a quirky nostalgic watch giving loads of value at under £400.

Free Shipping and a 12-month guarantee included. What more could you want :)
