A Tourmaline Diamond Brooch by Gübelin
POA

set in eighteen carat white gold with four carats of tourmaline and 0.40 carats c.1930s, it also appeared on the Antiques Roadshow.
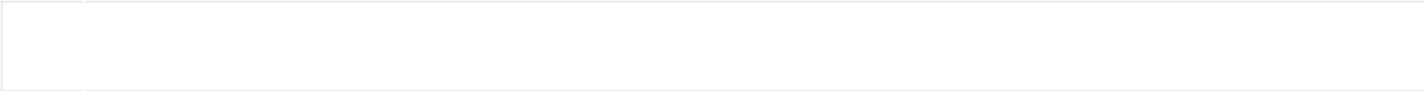

The House of Gübelin is a family-run fine jewellery, gemstone and watch institution with a 160-year heritage.

Led by the family's sixth generation, the House of Gübelin first started as a watchmaker's shop in Lucerne in 1854 and has a long tradition in offering coveted names such as Patek Philippe and Jaeger-LeCoultre, to name but a few. Aside from Gübelin's horological repertoire, the luxury brand Gübelin Jewellery has garnered plenty of accolades on its own. Gübelin Jewellery is famed for championing an aesthetic that is inspired by the fascinating inner world of gemstones combining artistic themes with nature and passion.
